DOINGS OF THE DIPLOMATS

Mrs. Brice Gives a Delightful Garden Party.

Two Large Functions to Be Given at the British Embassy—Many Notable Events.

Society has been quite gay during the past week. What, with the concert at the White House, on Monday evening, by the Mexican band, the reception at the home of the Secretary of State, on the same date, the party reception to the postal delegates, the Chandler-Caris nuptials, and a goodly sprinkling of dinners and out-of-door affairs, the days have been very acceptably filled.

Yesterday, in addition to several dinners, the kettle-drum and tambora, for the Children's Hospital, the eucree tournament, for the Humane Society, at Mrs. Barber's, there was a brilliant and delightful garden party, at the Corcoran House, which was the Brice's farewell function to their Washington friends.

In a short time there will be quite an exodus of prominent people. Tomorrow Baroness von Thielmann leaves for Lenox; in another week the Brices will take their final leave of Washington as a place of residence. About the middle of the week Mr. and Mrs. Parker Mann will go to their summer home; the Barbours will leave shortly for Annapolis, on the Hudson, and many notables will sail for Europe between this time and the middle of June.

A number of our official families are getting themselves comfortably settled in the homes which they will occupy during the coming four years.

The Secretary of War and Mrs. Alger have selected the home on the corner of State and K streets, which grew to be so famous for its hospitality during its occupancy by Gen. and Mrs. Draper.

The Algers began to have their effects moved from the house on Lafayette Square early in the week, and are now quite settled in their new home.

The family of Mr. Thomas R. Ryan, First Assistant Secretary of the Interior, is comfortably domiciled at No. 1 Iowa circle, the house immediately adjoining the Venezuelan legation.

With the passing of the spring days, when social engagements are few and far between, society has turned its thoughts to charity, and as a consequence goodly sums have been realized to aid the needy and the afflicted.

The "Charity Auction," which was held in the beautiful home of Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, was remarkably successful, despite the fact that the attendance was very small, owing to the bad weather. Everything was sold and a larger sum was realized than the promoters of the affair had hoped for.

Another style Apron, made of finer quality Lawn, Empire style, full gathered ruff over shoulder, finished with Val. Lace, Beading and Ribbon. Sizes 2 to 6 years.....69c. Sizes 8 to 12 years.....79c.

One of the prettiest dinners of the week was that given on Tuesday evening last by Mrs. Corbett-Smith, in honor of Miss Jennie Williams of Buffalo, N. Y. The guests included a number of the most prominent young people of the social set. Miss Mary Corbett-Smith, who is one of the most beautiful young girls of Washington, wore on this occasion a Parisian creation of pale pink, accordion plaited, tulle over shaded silk of the same shade, with a touch of violet about the corsage. Her friends say that Miss Mary was beamingly lovely in this gown.

The marriage of Miss Kate Chandler to Mr. Henry Minto Davis, of Concord, N. H., was the most important social event of the week, and a very beautiful wedding it was.

The drawing-rooms were filled with the perfume of roses, which, intermingled with vines and tall palms, made a beautiful background for the bride, in her white robes of satin and diamonds, and the rare lace ornamenting the gown had been worn at the marriage of the bride's mother.

Several dinners have been announced for the coming week, which will be very enjoyable affairs.

Among the guests and hostesses for these affairs will be the Minister of Mexico and Mme. Romero, who will entertain on the evening of May 18, in honor of the Vice President and Mrs. Hobart, and the United States Minister to Belgium and Mrs. Delany, who will entertain on Wednesday, May 19.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Glover will entertain a number of young people at a dance on Wednesday evening at their charming country home, Westover.

The British Ambassador and Lady Pauncefoot, accompanied by the Misses Pauncefoot, will sail for England about the middle of June, and arrive there in time for the gayest part of the London season, and, of course, for the queen's diamond jubilee.

On this occasion it is considered highly probable that in the distribution of honors, Sir Julian will be made a peer of England, in which case the Misses Pauncefoot will be entitled to have the title "Right Honorable" precede their names.

During these warm spring days the young ladies of Sir Julian's household have been giving much time to outdoor sports. Golf and wheeling have received an equal amount of attention. The four daughters, Miss Pauncefoot, the Misses Sibyl, Lillian and Audrey Pauncefoot, are all expert wheelwomen, and ride almost every day. Sir Julian is an enthusiastic bicyclist and it is said that he has mastered the machine in his spacious ballroom, where he preferred to practice rather than to take his tumbles in the presence of the omnipresent small boy, who is no respecter of persons.

Just across the street from the British embassy is the legation of Austria-Hungary, the fair mistress of which, Baroness Hengelmüller, often joins the Pauncefotes on their wheeling expeditions.

Miss Pauncefoot is quite musical, and is a member of the musical morning class, which comprises all the elite of the capital, who are musically-inclined, and which has a most able and talented leader in Mme. Albertini. This charming lady has recently left Washington, to occupy her beautiful summer home at Coburg, N. Y., and the class will be discontinued during the summer.

Miss Lillian Pauncefoot is a water color artist of ability, and her work shows power and originality. She has recently joined a sketching class, which is directed by Mr. Edwin Lomax, the well-known water color artist, of this city.

The secretaries and attaches of the British legation comprise a number of young men who are very popular in society, and who are much sought after by the dinner guests. They are, respectively, Capt. Lewis Winty, naval attaché; Mr. Henry Outram Bax-Francis, second secretary; Mr. Reginald Tower, second secretary; Mr. Hugh J. O'Brien, third secretary; Mr. Kavanagh, fourth secretary; the Earl of Westmeath, attaché; and Mr. Ronald Macleay, attaché.

Baroness von Thielmann, wife of the German ambassador, will leave for Lenox tomorrow morning, where she will spend the summer. Her sister, the Countess Rosa, will accompany her.

ton, as well as by the members of the diplomatic corps.

Although she has only spent three seasons at the National Capital, she has gained many warm friends, who have learned to appreciate her fine character and unassuming manners. The Baroness is a lady of the highest of married culture and a most interesting conversationalist. The interior of the handsome embassy on Highland Terrace evidences her excellent taste. The furnishings and decorations are in perfect harmony, and, while there are beautiful bronzes, statues and paintings by noted artists, there is none of that crowding together of a heterogeneous collection of pictures or bric-a-brac as one too frequently sees in many fashionable homes.

Baroness von Thielmann dresses very simply but always in the most elegant materials. Her favorite gowns, for street wear, are plain, tailor-made effects in dark cloths. In such a gown she is very frequently seen shopping on F street or at the florists.

Corcoran House and its beautiful grounds never appeared more lovely than yesterday afternoon, the occasion being a lawn party given by Mrs. Brice as a farewell to her friends in this city.

The corridors and drawing-rooms were embowered with roses. Great clusters of American Beauty roses, scarlet tulips, white azaleas and rhododendrons in tall crystal vases and bowls, added beauty to the scene. The steps on either side of the entrance were lined with palms and plants. From the hallway hung trailing vines and clusters of blossoms.

There were groups of daintily gowned girls and handsome women sitting on the benches, or gathered about the fountain. Mrs. Brice wore a gown of the sheerest linen. Miss Kate Brice was gowned in pale green, embroidered mull over tulle, and wore a large picture hat, trimmed with pink roses. Miss Helen Brice wore a pink and white mousseline de soie, over pink silk, and wore a black Gainsborough hat, with black ostrich tips.

Tables for all kinds of refreshments were scattered about the lawn, and in the dining-room strawberries and cream, sandwiches and salads were served.

Among the guests were the British Ambassador and Lady Pauncefoot, the German Ambassador and Baroness von Thielmann, the Minister of Austria-Hungary and Baroness Hengelmüller, the French Ambassador and Mme. Patenotre, the Minister of Spain and Mme. Dupuy de Lome, the Minister of Mexico and Mme. Romero, the Minister of Chile and Miss Gana, Miss Andrade, Mr. Eduardo Andrade, Dr. Andrade, Mr. Gana, Mrs. Boardman, the Misses Boardman, Mrs. Richard Wallach, Miss Rose Douglas Wallach, Mme. de Mendonca, the Misses de Mendonca, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Heath, Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Sartoris, Miss Sartoris, ex-Minister to Spain and Mrs. Hatcheller, Miss Hatcheller, Mr. Henderson, Senator and Mrs. Davis, Senator and Mrs. Stewart, Miss Gwynn, Mr. Kavanagh, the Earl of Westmeath, Mr. Troubert, Miss Martha Hichborn, Miss Cassels, Mrs. Micon, Miss Herbert, Mrs. Barron, Mrs. Carlisle, Mrs. Stoner, and all of the postal delegates, as well as many other prominent people.

The British Ambassador and Lady Pauncefoot entertained a notable company of young people at dinner last evening. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Charlton, the French Ambassador, Mme. Patenotre, Mr. Gavan
